WHEREAS, there has been a steady growth in nonresident hunting license sales and hunting pressure on publicly accessible lands; and

WHEREAS, Montana's significant population growth necessitates a detailed assessment of hunting season structure after 40 years; and

WHEREAS, there has been a decline of roughly 1 million acres in the amount of private land enrolled in the block management program over the past 10 years, concentrating hunters on smaller amounts of publicly accessible lands; and

WHEREAS, hunter success rates have been steadily falling, while hunter use days have been steadily increasing; and

WHEREAS, public sentiment indicates that Montana's wildlife resources are being strained by a variety of factors; and

WHEREAS, landowner fatigue with the current hunting season structure relative to elk hunting opportunities is setting in; and

WHEREAS, the wildlife of Montana belongs to all citizens; and

WHEREAS, the process of finding solutions to the issues surrounding the current management of hunting seasons, including resident and nonresident license allocation, should include all stakeholders.
